Estate Planning at the Stanislaus County Libraries

Local attorney Gina Leguria will host an informative seminar this month at Stanislaus County Libraries entitled "The Best Things in Life Aren't Things." In this seminar Leguria will demonstrate how a lack of estate planning has been detrimental to American families. Participants will learn how to set estate planning goals, such as how to protect material wealth from probate and taxes and how to transfer an estate to beneficiaries.

This seminar is designed to make the often intimidating topic of estate planning less confusing. Knowledge of the laws surrounding probate will serve to help individuals make better financial decisions for themselves and their families. Leguria will cover topics such as taxes, insurance, beneficiaries and assets, as well as numerous other issues often encountered in estate planning.
